

A black hole is a region of spacetime where gravity is so strong that nothing—no particles or even electron